Vent-Axia Leads the Market with Six Award Shortlists

Volution Group plc (LSE: FAN), a leading supplier of ventilation products to the residential and commercial construction markets, has announced that its Vent-Axia brand has once again shown its design leadership by being shortlisted six times in a prestigious industry award scheme, the H&V News Awards. Leading the UK ventilation sector since 1936, Vent-Axia is one of Volution Group's 15 key ventilation brands. With three of Vent-Axia's innovative products shortlisted in two categories each at the H&V News Awards, the company has illustrated both commitment to R&D and foresight in tackling the problems associated with poor indoor air quality (IAQ) in the home.

Investing heavily in R&D, Vent-Axia is known for its high quality, technologically advanced, British manufactured ventilation products. This impressive success in the H&V News Awards focuses on three of the company's newest product launches, the Vent-Axia PureAir Sense, the Silent Fan and the PoziDry Compact Pro. All three fans have been named as finalists in both the 'Air Movement Product of the Year' and the 'Domestic Ventilation Product of the Year' categories.

This multiple shortlisting in the H&V News Awards once more confirms Vent-Axia's leading position in the ventilation market. The H&V News Awards reward excellence and celebrate the achievements across the building services industry. Award winners will be announced at a glittering ceremony at the prestigious 5-star Grosvenor House Hotel on London's Park Lane on 30 April 2020.

"Since 1936 Vent-Axia has been developing ground-breaking, reliable, landmark products. We are absolutely delighted to have been shortlisted for six awards. This recognition is a great indicator that our innovations continue to excite the market and focus on delivering real benefits to customers through our market-leading ventilation design and expertise in helping the nation improve the air quality in their homes" said Richard Paine, Marketing Director at Vent-Axia.
